

Using our ratio signals is a way for us to be clear what the ratio is for any point and get our teammates to join us on the line if we need additional players. Use the signals below to communicate to your opponents and teammates!

Signal for 4 Male Matching Players (MMP)
Both hands behind head

Signal for 4 Female Matching Players (FMP)
Arms extended to each side at shoulder height

"We need one more MMP on the line!"

Signal to your team by placing one hand behind your head (e.g. the signal for MMP point) and hold out the number of players for that gender match you need on the field to start the point.

Kelly's team needs 1 MMP on the line, so she is signaling by holding up 1 finger to her team.

"We need one more FMP on the line!"

Signal to your team by placing one hand out to the side, with your arm extended at shoulder level (e.g. the signal for FMP point) and hold out the number of players for that gender match you need on the field to start the point.

Tyler's team needs 1 FMP on the line, so he is signaling by holding up 1 finger to his team.
